Diocese of Newcastle – History and Overview

The Anglican Diocese of Newcastle is one of the historic dioceses of the Anglican Church of Australia. Following European settlement the Australian Church of England came first under the jurisdiction of the Diocese of Calcutta, with colonial chaplains providing ministry over the various settlements in the colony. One of these was Newcastle, where services were held at the original Christ Church from 1817.

In 1836 William Grant Broughton, Archdeacon of the colony, was consecrated Bishop of Australia – a post he held until the formation of four new Dioceses in 1847. (The Diocese of Tasmania had previously been created in 1842, but without a Bishop).

The Diocese of Newcastle was one of these Dioceses, founded by Royal Letters Patent in 1847. The boundaries of the new See were thus defined: From the Hawkesbury River in the South, to the 21st Parallel of Latitude on the North, and from the Pacific on the East, to the boundary of South Australia - the 141st degree of Longitude - on the West.

On the 29th June, St Peter's Day, of that year, the Reverend William Tyrrell DD, was consecrated in Westminster Abbey as the first Bishop and on the 30th January of the following year (Dr Tyrrell's forty first birthday) he was installed in the Cathedral at Newcastle.

There were then 14 Clergy in the Diocese including two whom the Bishop had brought with him.

Bishop Tyrrell is known throughout the Diocese for his generosity and his hard work. He regularly travelled across his large Diocese on horseback visiting the people and parishes of his region. He left this new Diocese only once, and that was to go on a mission trip. In his will he left his estate for the future of the Diocese he served so completely.

During his episcopate the Diocese of Brisbane was formed (1859), thus reducing the size of the Diocese so that it extended only to the Queensland Border.

Eight years later (1967) the creation of the Dioceses of Grafton and Armidale wholly out of the parent Diocese fixed the Northern boundary. The formation of the Diocese of Bathurst in 1870 further reduced the size of the Diocese.

In 1940 by arrangement with the Diocese of Grafton, the Newcastle Diocesan Boundary was slightly extended on the North so as to embrace the district of Heron's Creek, which previously was within the Diocese of Grafton but had always been worked from Newcastle.

The boundaries of the Diocese as now existing are thus described:

Commencing at a point on the coast where Cathie Lake empties into the ocean; thence by Cathie and Ten Mile Creeks to the top of Broken Bago Range; hence by that range to Mount Comboyne; thence by an imaginary line running westward to the intersection of the counties of Parry and Vernon; thence in a South Westerly direction, following the Liverpool Range to the Goulburn River; thence by the river to a point above the village of Bylong; thence by the mountain range in a Southerly direction to the Colo River at its junction with Putty Creek; thence by the Colo and Hawkesbury Rivers to the coast; thence in a Northerly direction to the point of commencement.

Dr Tyrrell's Episcopate ended with his death in 1879. The 14 Clergy of 1847 had grown to 28. The Diocese was geographically smaller, but the population was increasing.

Dr Josiah Brown Pearson LL.D., DD., was the next occupant of the See. Poor health caused Bishop Pearson to resign the See in June, 1889, after 9 year's, leaving a clergy roll of 44.

In November 1890, The Right Reverend George Henry Stanton, DD., was translated from North Queensland to the vacant See. He died 15 years later, on 4th December, 1905.

John Francis Stretch, DD. some time Coadjutor-Bishop of Brisbane, and afterwards Dean of Newcastle, was elected as Dr Stanton's successor, at a special session of Synod, held in February, 1906. He occupied the See for 13 years, when failing health led him to advise of his intention to resign as from June 30, 1919. To the very great regret, however, of all who knew him, he did not live to enjoy his retirement. His death occurred on 9th April, 1919. During his episcopate the clergy roll increased from 45 to 70.

As successor to Dr Stretch, the Right Reverend Reginald Stephen, DD., at that time Bishop of Tasmania, was elected on the 8th April, 1919. During his episcopate a great advance was made in Diocesan institutions. St Alban's Home for Boys, St Elizabeth's Home for Girls, St George's Training Farm, St Hilda's Hostel for Girls, St Stephen's House for the early training of candidates for the ministry, and the Broughton School for Boys being established; and the Provincial College of St John was removed from Armidale to Morpeth. The number of licensed clergymen in the Diocese had reached 95. He resigned the See as from 1st March, 1928.

The Right Reverend George Merrick Long, CBE., LL.D., DD., then Bishop of Bathurst, was elected to the See at a special session of Synod on the 6th December, 1927, and was enthroned in Christ Church Cathedral, Newcastle on the 1st May, 1928. Death claimed him with tragic suddenness whilst attending the Lambeth Conference in 1930. By reason of his death the Church lost one of its most prominent ecclesiastics, whose wisdom and statesmanship in the great problems of Australia left an indelible record of unselfishness, character and efficiency both within and without the Church.

Following on his demise, a Special Session of Synod for the election of a Bishop was summoned by the Administrator of the Diocese, the Venerable H.A. Woodd, BA., Archdeacon of Newcastle, which met on the 9th September, 1930: but as the Synod failed to elect a Bishop, the responsibility in accordance with the terms of the relative Ordinance, devolved upon the Bishop Election Board, which on the 14th day of November, 1930, elected unanimously to the vacant See the Right Reverend Francis de Witt Batty, MA., ThSoc., who accepted the position and was duly enthroned in the Cathedral Church of Newcastle on the 3rd day of March, 1931.

During his long Episcopate of twenty-eight years, he made a marked contribution to the life of the Diocese and to the Church and community in general.

The two outstanding projects were the establishments of the C.A. Brown Homes for the Aged, and the buying and re-establishing of St. John's Theological College, Morpeth. His contribution to the wider Church was well recognised, in particular his long leadership of the Constitutional movement, culminating in the acceptance of a Constitution by General Synod in 1955.

Bishop Batty resigned the See as from 30th September, 1958.

The Election Synod met in April, 1958 and elected The Right Reverend James Alan George Housden, BA., Th.D., Bishop of Rockhampton, who was transferred and enthroned on the 21st November, 1958. His occupancy of the See was marked by a deep pastoral concern for clergy and people alike. He held office for fourteen years when declining health led to his resignation as from 31 December, 1972.

The Election Synod met on 16th October, 25th November and 28th November, 1972 but failed to elect a Bishop. Under the provisions of the election ordinance the election of the Bishop was delegated to Diocesan Council, which on 7th December, 1972 elected The Right Reverend Ian Wotton Allnutt Shevill, MA., ThD., General Secretary of the United Society for the Propagation of the Gospel and formerly Bishop of North Queensland. Bishop Shevill was enthroned on the 6th August, 1973.

During his episcopate the administration of the Diocese saw the Diocese managed under six Portfolios, the finances of the diocese strengthened, the beginning of plans to extend the C.A. Brown Anglican Village, and plans to complete Christ Church Cathedral. Ill health caused him to resign the See on 30th September, 1977.

The Election Synod met on 12th November and elected the Right Reverend Alfred Charles Holland, BA. ThD., then Assistant Bishop in the Diocese of Perth. He was enthroned on 24th February, 1978 in Christ Church Cathedral.

His episcopate saw the construction of Bishop Tyrrell Lodge at the Morpeth Conference Centre, the creation of new parishes, the development of The Samaritans Foundation and specialist chaplaincies. He was a strong advocate of the ordination of women. Bishop Holland resigned the See on 6 August, 1992, the twenty second anniversary of his consecration as a bishop.

The Election Synod met on 1-3 October, 1992, but failed to elect a Bishop. A further Synod met on 11-12 December, 1992 and elected The Right Reverend Roger Adrian Herft, BD., BTh., then Bishop of Waikato, New Zealand. He was enthroned on 6th May, 1993 in Christ Church Cathedral.

During his episcopate church schools were established, chaplaincy ministry expanded and the establishment of the Two Bishops Trust occurred. A very good working relationship with the Bishop of Maitland-Newcastle Catholic Diocese developed as did a good rapport with the community. Bishop Herft was elected Archbishop of Perth and resigned the See on 15 April 2005.

The Election Synod met on 10-12 March 2005. The Synod elected The Right Reverend Dr Brian George Farran, BA., BLitt.,ThL., DMinStuds then Bishop of the Northern Region in the Diocese of Perth. Bishop Farran was enthroned on 24 June 2005 in Christ Church Cathedral. During his episcopate the Diocese was reshaped around mission and the development of ministry teams under the banner of "Ministering Communities in Mission" was a significant priority. Bishop Farran also oversaw the signing of a covenant with the Catholic Dioceses of Maitland-Newcastle and Broken Bay, and the introduction of the Diocesan Professional Standards Unit. The laying up of his pastoral staff took place on his 68th birthday on the 15 December 2012 in Christ Church Cathedral. Bishop Peter Stuart became the Administrator of the Diocese on 16 December 2012.

In 2013 two Election Synod's were held. At the second Synod on the 14 September, The Right Reverend Gregory Thompson ThL., DipMin., BTh.(Hons), was elected and installed on the 2 February 2014 as the 13th Bishop of Newcastle.

Bishop Thompson's episcopate saw him address as a priority the issue of historic sexual abuse within the Diocese and also changing culture. He became a respected advocate for survivors of abuse in the wider community, and led the Diocese through the Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse. His leadership was marked by the theme, "Facing the Past Shaping a Healthy Future". Bishop Thompson resigned in 2017, and laid up his his pastoral staff in Christ Church Cathedral on 27 May 2017. Bishop Peter Stuart administered the Diocese from 1 December 2016.

An Episcopal Election Synod was held on 25 November 2017. At this Synod, The Right Reverend Dr Peter Stuart, BCom, BD, M Mgmt (Community) EdD, assistant Bishop of the Diocese, was elected to be the 14th Bishop of Newcastle. His was commissioned and installed on 2 February 2018.

The area of the Diocese is given at 41437 square kms, with a population of approximately 1,044,300 of whom it is estimated some 240, 780 (23.1%) identified as Anglican (2016 census).
